

The key to success in any workplace; look pissed off and late all the time. People will assume you are busy and important.

